

Prevent Infection. Fight The Virus!

*Now is the time to

The best way to keep these illnesses from impacting your business and facilities is to put successful practices into place:

Follow proper hand hygiene guidelines. 80% of germs are passed on by our hands. Keep washrooms equipped with high-quality soaps and dispensers and keep hand sanitizer or wipes out in public areas.

Clean and disinfect high-touch surfaces. Sanitize desks, countertops, keyboards, doorknobs and other high-touch surfaces throughout the day with a registered disinfectant

Be aware of risks. Ask employees and coworkers to avoid sharing food and drinks, to cover their mouths when sneezing or coughing with a tissue and be sure to throw them out after each use. Keep facilities clean.

Take time off. Encourage staff and co-workers to stay home when sick. Stop the spread of infection.

Not touching eyes, nose, or mouth, avoiding close contact with people who are sick, cleaning and disinfection of contaminated surfaces.

Monitor advice and news from public health bodies and government sources.

Create a culture of health. Plan workshops and trainings.
